Join us for our new project!

As you may know, we have been working on a third location to help further our mission to be a community hub and a hometown brand for those who call DC home. We are so excited to open another neighborhood brewpub in the Eckington neighborhood, a residential area in NoMa, located across from the Bouldering Project and near Alethia Tanner Park.

We've had the standard delays and a couple of false starts in this project, but we're feeling really good about this start. ;) We are hoping to start construction this month and open by the end of the year. If you'd like to join us in being a part of this from the ground up, we just launched a crowdfunding campaign on WeFunder. We would love any support you can give through investing and sharing with others who may be interested. Check out all the details here:
