Hypothetical Payout Profile (Maturity Payment Amount)

If the securities are not automatically called prior to maturity and the ending price is less than the downside threshold price, you will have full downside exposure to the decrease in the price of the Underlying Stock from the starting price and will lose more than 30%, and possibly all, of the face amount of your securities at maturity.

Any positive return on the securities will be limited to the sum of your contingent coupon payments, if any. You will not participate in any appreciation of the Underlying Stock, but you will have full downside exposure to the Underlying Stock if the securities are not automatically called and the ending price is less than the downside threshold price.

The estimated initial value of the securities on the pricing date is expected to be between $937.00 and $975.00 per security, which will be less than the original offering price. The market value of the securities at any time will reflect many factors and cannot be predicted with accuracy. See “Terms of the Securities—Estimated Initial Value” in the accompanying free writing prospectus.
