RISK FACTORS

8. Discuss the material factors that make an investment in the issuer speculative or risky. ⓘ

A crowdfunding investment involves risk. Investors should not invest any funds unless they can afford to lose the entire investment.

In making an investment decision, investors must rely on their own examination of the issuer and the terms of the offering, including the merits and risks involved. These securities have not been recommended or approved by any federal or state securities commission or regulatory authority. Furthermore, these authorities have not passed upon the accuracy or adequacy of this document.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission does not pass upon the merits of any securities offered or the terms of the offering, nor does it pass upon the accuracy or completeness of any offering document or literature.

These securities are offered under an exemption from registration, however, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has not made an independent determination that these securities are exempt from registration.

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company's assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

Oya Active Inc was incorporated in May 2025 and has a very limited operating history upon which investors can evaluate our business and prospects. We are an early-stage company in the highly competitive activewear and apparel industry. Our business model, which relies on cultural capsule drops combined with everyday core products, has not been proven at scale. There is no assurance that our approach to building brand awareness through creator partnerships, athlete ambassadors, and grassroots events will result in sustainable revenue growth or profitability. The initial costs of product development, inventory management, and market penetration will be substantial, and we may never achieve the market acceptance necessary to become a viable business. Investors must evaluate an investment in our company with the understanding that early-stage companies face a high risk of failure.

Our company currently has only two employees, and our future success depends heavily on the continued services and performance of this small team. The loss of either key team member could significantly disrupt our operations, product development, and growth plans. We do not maintain key person life insurance on any member of our team. As we attempt to scale our business, we will need to attract, hire, and retain additional qualified personnel with expertise in apparel design, e-commerce operations, supply chain management, marketing, and other critical functions. There can be no assurance that we will be successful in recruiting the talent necessary to execute our business plan. Competition for qualified personnel in the activewear and e-commerce industries is intense, and we may not be able to offer compensation packages competitive with larger, more established companies. Our inability to build an adequate team could prevent us from achieving our growth objectives and could materially harm our business prospects.

The activewear and athletic apparel market is highly competitive and dominated by well-established brands such as Lululemon, Nike, Athleta, Under Armour, and numerous other national and international competitors. These competitors have substantially greater financial resources, brand recognition, marketing budgets, distribution networks, manufacturing capabilities, and customer loyalty than we do. Many of these competitors have been operating for decades and have established strong relationships with suppliers, manufacturers, and retail partners. They also have the resources to respond quickly to market trends, invest heavily in product innovation, and engage in aggressive pricing strategies that we may not be able to match. Additionally, the barriers to entry in the direct-to-consumer activewear market are relatively low, and we face competition from numerous emerging brands and online retailers. Our ability to compete effectively will depend on our capacity to differentiate our brand, maintain product quality, and build customer loyalty in an extremely crowded marketplace. There is no assurance that we will be able to compete successfully against these established and emerging competitors.

Our business strategy relies on building brand awareness and acquiring customers primarily through creator partnerships, athlete ambassadors, grassroots events, pop-ups, and community-led initiatives rather than traditional paid advertising. This approach is unproven and may not generate sufficient customer acquisition or brand recognition to support sustainable growth. The effectiveness of influencer and creator partnerships can be unpredictable and difficult to measure, and there is no guarantee that these relationships will translate into sales or long-term customer loyalty. Our planned cultural capsule drops are designed to create brand excitement and drive demand, but limited-release products may not provide the consistent revenue streams necessary to sustain operations between launches. If our community-building and grassroots marketing strategies fail to resonate with our target audiences or do not scale efficiently, we may be forced to adopt more expensive traditional marketing approaches, which could significantly increase our customer acquisition costs and negatively impact our financial performance. Our ability to execute this unconventional go-to-market strategy with limited resources and a small team presents significant execution risk.

We rely on third-party suppliers and manufacturers to produce our activewear products. We do not own or operate any manufacturing facilities and have limited control over the production process, quality standards, delivery schedules, and costs associated with our products. Disruptions in our supply chain due to factory closures, labor disputes, quality control issues, capacity constraints, or financial difficulties experienced by our suppliers could result in delays in product availability, increased costs, or inability to meet customer demand. The apparel manufacturing industry has experienced significant disruptions in recent years due to global events, logistics challenges, shipping delays, and increased costs for raw materials and freight. We may face difficulties in finding alternative suppliers or manufacturers on short notice if our current partners are unable to fulfill our orders. Additionally, as we plan to launch cultural capsule drops alongside everyday core products, we will need to manage complex inventory planning and production timing with limited working capital and operational infrastructure. Any significant disruption in our supply chain could prevent us from delivering products to customers, damage our brand reputation, and materially harm our business and financial results.

We currently have limited cash reserves and will require substantial additional funding beyond this offering to fully develop our business, scale production, build inventory, and execute our marketing and community-building initiatives. The funds raised in this offering may not be sufficient to achieve our business objectives, particularly if we encounter unexpected challenges, higher-than-anticipated costs, or slower-than-expected revenue growth. We do not currently have any commitments or arrangements for additional financing, and there can be no assurance that we will be able to raise additional capital on acceptable terms, if at all. Our ability to obtain additional financing will depend on numerous factors, including our operating performance, market conditions, investor appetite for early-stage consumer brands, and the overall economic environment. If we are unable to secure additional funding when needed, we may be forced to delay or curtail our product development plans, reduce marketing expenditures, scale back operations, or cease business operations entirely. The inability to obtain adequate financing would severely restrict our ability to grow and could result in a total loss of investment for our investors.

We have incurred losses since inception and expect to continue incurring losses for the foreseeable future as we invest in product development, inventory, marketing, community building, and operational infrastructure. We cannot predict when, if ever, we will become profitable. Our ability to achieve profitability will depend on numerous factors, many of which are beyond our control, including our ability to generate sufficient revenue, manage production and inventory costs, control operating expenses, and achieve economies of scale. The direct-to-consumer activewear business typically requires significant upfront investment in inventory, marketing, and customer acquisition before generating positive cash flow. Even if we do achieve profitability, we may not be able to sustain or increase profitability on a quarterly or annual basis. If we are unable to achieve and sustain profitability, the value of our company may decline, and investors may lose some or all of their investment.

Our business is dependent on consumer spending on activewear and athletic apparel, which is discretionary in nature and sensitive to economic conditions. During economic downturns, recessions, or periods of reduced consumer confidence, consumers may reduce spending on non-essential items such as activewear, which could significantly reduce demand for our products. Additionally, consumer preferences in the fashion and activewear industries are constantly evolving and can be difficult to predict. Trends that are popular today may quickly fall out of favor, and our ability to anticipate and respond to changing consumer tastes will be critical to our success. Our focus on cultural capsule drops tied to specific themes or communities may limit our appeal to broader consumer segments or may not resonate as strongly as we anticipate. If we fail to accurately predict trends, design products that appeal to our target customers, or adapt quickly to changing market conditions, our sales and growth prospects could be materially harmed. The activewear market has also become increasingly saturated with brands competing for consumer attention, making it more difficult and expensive to differentiate our products and build lasting brand loyalty.

Our business operates exclusively through our e-commerce website, and we are entirely dependent on the continuous and reliable operation of our online platform, website hosting services, payment processing systems, and related digital infrastructure. We likely rely on third-party technology providers for website hosting, e-commerce functionality, payment processing, customer relationship management, and other critical business functions. Any significant disruption, outage, or performance issue with these systems could prevent customers from accessing our website, completing purchases, or receiving order confirmations, which could result in lost sales, customer dissatisfaction, and damage to our brand reputation. We may also face technical challenges related to website performance, mobile optimization, checkout functionality, or integration with shipping and fulfillment systems. As a small company with limited technical resources, we may not have the expertise or capacity to quickly resolve complex technical issues or implement necessary upgrades and security measures. Additionally, if any of our third-party technology providers experience financial difficulties, discontinue their services, significantly increase their pricing, or fail to maintain adequate security and performance standards, we could face substantial disruption to our operations. Our dependence on digital infrastructure and third-party platforms creates significant operational risk.

As an e-commerce retailer selling consumer products, we are subject to various federal, state, and international laws and regulations governing consumer protection, advertising practices, product labeling, textile and apparel standards, online sales, data privacy, and electronic communications. These regulations include requirements related to product safety, accurate advertising, disclosure of product materials and care instructions, consumer refund and return policies, and compliance with Federal Trade Commission guidelines. We must also comply with regulations governing email marketing, text message communications, and online privacy policies. As we expand our marketing efforts through creator partnerships and social media, we must ensure that all promotional content complies with FTC guidelines regarding endorsements and disclosure of material connections. Additionally, because we offer international shipping to over one hundred countries, we may be subject to import/export regulations, customs requirements, international consumer protection laws, and foreign tax obligations that vary by jurisdiction. Changes to existing regulations or the adoption of new laws could require us to modify our business practices, implement new compliance procedures, or incur additional costs. Our failure to comply with applicable regulations could result in fines, penalties, legal liability, or restrictions on our ability to conduct business, any of which could materially harm our operations and financial condition.

Our e-commerce business requires us to collect, store, and process personal information from customers, including names, addresses, email addresses, payment information, and purchase history. We are subject to various data privacy and security laws and regulations, including state laws such as the California Consumer Privacy Act and similar legislation in other jurisdictions, as well as international data protection regulations for customers in foreign countries. We must implement and maintain appropriate security measures to protect customer data from unauthorized access, theft, or disclosure. However, as a small company with limited resources, we may not have the sophisticated cybersecurity infrastructure or dedicated security personnel that larger companies employ. Cyber threats, including hacking, phishing, malware, ransomware, and other attacks, are increasing in frequency and sophistication. If we experience a data breach or security incident that results in unauthorized access to customer information, we could face significant legal liability, regulatory penalties, loss of customer trust, and damage to our brand reputation. We could also be required to spend substantial resources to investigate and remediate the breach, notify affected customers, provide credit monitoring services, and implement enhanced security measures. Even if we do not experience a direct security breach, any perception that our systems are not secure could deter customers from making purchases on our website. Our reliance on third-party service providers for payment processing and data storage also creates additional security risks that are partially outside of our direct control.

Our success depends in part on our ability to protect our brand identity, product designs, and other intellectual property. We rely on trademarks, trade dress, copyrights, and trade secrets to protect our brand name, logo, website content, and proprietary designs. However, we may not have registered all necessary trademarks or obtained adequate protection for our intellectual property, particularly given our early stage of development. The fashion and activewear industries are particularly susceptible to copying and imitation, and we may find it difficult and expensive to prevent others from copying our designs or using similar branding. Additionally, we face the risk that third parties may claim that our products, designs, branding, or marketing materials infringe on their intellectual property rights. Defending against such claims, even if ultimately successful, could be costly and time-consuming and could divert management attention from operating our business. If we are found to have infringed on the intellectual property rights of others, we could be required to pay damages, cease using certain designs or branding elements, or enter into costly licensing agreements. As a small company with limited financial resources, intellectual property litigation could have a disproportionately severe impact on our business and could potentially force us to cease operations. Furthermore, enforcing our own intellectual property rights against infringers may be prohibitively expensive and may not be practical given our limited resources.

The securities being offered are Simple Agreements for Future Equity, commonly known as SAFEs. SAFEs are not traditional debt instruments and do not have a maturity date or require the company to repay the investment amount. Instead, SAFEs are designed to convert into equity securities only upon the occurrence of specific future events, such as a qualified equity financing, a liquidity event, or a dissolution of the company. There is no guarantee that any of these conversion events will ever occur. If the company does not raise a subsequent equity financing round, does not experience a liquidity event such as an acquisition or public offering, and continues to operate indefinitely without such events, the SAFE may never convert into equity, and investors may never realize any return on their investment. Additionally, the terms of conversion, including the valuation at which the SAFE converts and the type of equity securities received, will be determined by future events and negotiations that are uncertain and beyond investors' control. The SAFE structure provides investors with no voting rights, no ability to force conversion, and no guaranteed return of capital. Investors should understand that purchasing a SAFE is a highly speculative investment with significant uncertainty regarding if and when any equity ownership or return will be realized.

An investment in Oya Active Inc. is highly speculative and involves a substantial degree of risk. Investors should be prepared for the possibility of losing their entire investment. We are an early-stage company with a limited operating history, unproven business model, and no assurance of future revenue or profitability. The activewear industry is highly competitive, and the vast majority of new consumer brands fail to achieve sustainable success. Even if we are able to generate revenue, there is no guarantee that we will be able to achieve profitability or create value for investors. The SAFE securities being offered do not provide any guaranteed return, dividend payments, or repayment of principal. The value of the securities, if and when they convert to equity, will depend entirely on the future success and valuation of the company, which is highly uncertain. Investors should only invest funds that they can afford to lose entirely and should consider this investment as part of a diversified portfolio that includes less risky assets. This investment is suitable only for investors who understand and can bear the risk of a complete loss of their investment.

There is currently no public market for the SAFE securities being offered, and we do not expect that a public market will ever develop. The securities have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933 or any state securities laws and are being offered pursuant to exemptions from registration requirements. As a result, the securities are subject to significant restrictions on transfer and resale. Investors will be required to hold these securities for an indefinite period of time and should not expect to be able to sell or otherwise liquidate their investment. Even after any applicable holding periods expire, there will likely be no secondary market or platform on which investors can sell their securities. Any future sale of the securities will require compliance with federal and state securities laws, which may be difficult and expensive. Additionally, if and when the SAFE securities convert to equity, those equity securities will also be restricted and illiquid. The company is not obligated to register any securities for resale, facilitate a secondary market, or pursue a liquidity event such as an acquisition or public offering. Investors must be prepared to hold this investment until such time, if ever, that the company experiences a liquidity event, which could be many years in the future or may never occur. The illiquid nature of this investment means that investors will not be able to access their invested capital in the event of personal financial need or changing investment objectives.

In connection with this offering, the founder of Oya Active Inc. has designated himself as the lead investor who will sign documents and make certain decisions on behalf of all investors participating through the special purpose vehicle structure. This arrangement creates a significant and inherent conflict of interest because the founder has interests both as the operator and owner of the company and as the representative of the investors. Decisions that benefit the company or the founder personally may not align with the interests of other investors. For example, the founder may have incentives to prioritize the company's growth and operational needs over investor protections or returns. The founder will have access to material non-public information about the company's performance, challenges, and prospects that other investors do not have, creating an information asymmetry that could disadvantage investors. There is no independent third-party investor advocate or representative to protect the interests of crowdfunding investors or to provide oversight of the founder's actions in their capacity as lead investor. Investors will have no ability to remove or replace the lead investor and will have limited recourse if they disagree with decisions made by the founder on their behalf. This structure concentrates significant power and decision-making authority in the hands of the founder, who may prioritize their interests as company management over their fiduciary obligations to investors. Investors should carefully consider this conflict of interest and understand that they will have no independent representation in matters affecting their investment.

DELIVERY & CANCELLATIONS

11. How will the issuer complete the transaction and deliver securities to the investors?

Book Entry and Investment in the Co-Issuer. Investors will make their investments by investing in interests issued by one or more co-issuers, each of which is a special purpose vehicle ("SPV"). The SPV will invest all amounts it receives from investors in securities issued by the Company. Interests issued to investors by the SPV will be in book entry form. This means that the investor will not receive a certificate representing his or her investment. Each investment will be recorded in the books and records of the SPV. In addition, investors' interests in the investments will be recorded in each investor's "Portfolio" page on the Wefunder platform. All references in this Form C to an investor's investment in the Company (or similar phrases) should be interpreted to include investments in a SPV.

12. How can an investor cancel an investment commitment?

NOTE: Investors may cancel an investment commitment until 48 hours prior to the deadline identified in these offering materials.

The intermediary will notify investors when the target offering amount has been met. If the issuer reaches the target offering amount prior to the deadline identified in the offering materials, it may close the offering early if it provides notice about the new offering deadline at least five business days prior to such new offering deadline.

If an investor does not cancel an investment commitment before the 48-hour period prior to the offering deadline, the funds will be released to the issuer upon closing of the offering and the investor will receive securities in exchange for his or her investment.

If an investor does not reconfirm his or her investment commitment after a material change is made to the offering, the investor's investment commitment will be cancelled and the committed funds will be returned.

An investor's right to cancel. An investor may cancel his or her investment commitment at any time until 48 hours prior to the offering deadline.

If there is a material change to the terms of the offering or the information provided to the investor about the offering and/or the Company, the investor will be provided notice of the change and must reconfirm his or her investment commitment within five business days of receipt of the notice. If the investor does not reconfirm, he or she will receive notifications disclosing that the commitment was cancelled, the reason for the cancellation, and the refund amount that the investor is required to receive. If a material change occurs within five business days of the maximum number of days the offering is to remain open, the offering will be extended to allow for a period of five business days for the investor to reconfirm.

If the investor cancels his or her investment commitment during the period when cancellation is permissible, or does not reconfirm a commitment in the case of a material change to the investment, or the offering does not close, all of the investor's funds will be returned within five business days.

Within five business days of cancellation of an offering by the Company, the Company will give each investor notification of the cancellation, disclose the reason for the cancellation, identify the refund amount the investor will receive, and refund the investor's funds.

The Company's right to cancel. The Investment Agreement you will execute with us provides the Company the right to cancel for any reason before the offering deadline.

If the sum of the investment commitments from all investors does not equal or exceed the target offering amount at the time of the offering deadline, no securities will be sold in the offering, investment commitments will be cancelled and committed funds will be returned.

Ownership and Capital Structure

THE OFFERING

13. Describe the terms of the securities being offered.

To view a copy of the SAFE you will purchase, please see Appendix B, Investor Contracts. The main terms of the SAFEs are provided below.

The SAFEs are offering securities in the form of a Simple Agreement for Future Equity ("SAFE"), which provides investors the right to Preferred Stock in the Company ("Preferred Stock"), when and if the Company sponsors an equity offering that involves Preferred Stock, on the standard terms offered to other investors.

Conversion to Preferred Equity. Based on our SAFEs, when we engage in an offering of equity interests involving Preferred Stock, investors will receive a number of shares of Preferred Stock calculated using the method that results in the greater number of Preferred Stock:

the total value of the investor's investment, divided by the price of Preferred Stock issued to new investors if the valuation for the company is more than $10,000,000.00 (the "Valuation Cap"), the amount invested by the investor divided by the quotient of the Valuation Cap divided by the total amount of the Company's capitalization at that time.

Additional Terms of the Valuation Cap: For purposes of option (ii) above, the Company's capitalization calculated as of immediately prior to the Equity Financing and (without double-counting, in each case calculated on an as-converted to Common Stock basis):

- Includes all shares of Capital Stock issued and outstanding;
- Includes all Converting Securities;
- Includes all (i) issued and outstanding Options and (ii) Promised Options; and
- Includes the Unissued Option Pool, except that any increase to the Unissued Option Pool in connection with the Equity Financing shall only be included to the extent that the number of Promised Options exceeds the Unissued Option Pool prior to such increase.

Liquidity Events: If the Company has an initial public offering or is acquired by, merged with, or otherwise taken over by another company or new owners prior to investors in the SAFEs receiving Preferred Stock, investors will receive proceeds equal to the greater of (i) the Purchase Amount (the "Cash-Out Amount") or (ii) the amount payable on the number of shares of Common Stock equal to the Purchase Amount divided by the Liquidity Price (the "Conversion Amount").

Liquidity Priority: In a Liquidity Event or Dissolution Event, this Safe is intended to operate like standard nonparticipating Preferred Stock. The investor's right to receive its Cash-Out Amount is:

- Junior to payment of outstanding indebtedness and creditor claims, including contractual claims for payment and convertible promissory notes (to the extent such convertible promissory notes are not actually or notionally converted into Capital Stock);
- On par with payments for other Safes and/or Preferred Stock, and if the applicable Proceeds are insufficient to permit full payments to the investor and such other Safes and/or Preferred Stock, the applicable Proceeds will be distributed pro rata to the investor and such other Safes and/or Preferred Stock in proportion to the full payments that would otherwise be due; and
- Senior to payments for Common Stock.

Securities Issued by the SPV: Instead of issuing its securities directly to investors, the Company has decided to issue its securities to the SPV, which will then issue interests in the SPV to investors. The SPV is formed concurrently with the filing of the Form C. Given this, the SPV does not have any financials to report. The SPV is managed by Wefunder Admin, LLC and is a co-issuer with the Company of the securities being offered in this offering. The Company's use of the SPV is intended to allow investors in the SPV to achieve the same economic exposure, voting power, and ability to assert State and Federal law rights, and receive the same disclosures, as if they had invested directly in the Company. While the issuer may be required to pay an annual administrative fee for the maintenance of the SPV, investors should note the Company's use of the SPV will not result in any additional fees being charged to investors.

The SPV has been organized and will be operated for the sole purpose of directly acquiring, holding and disposing of the Company's securities. Will not borrow money and will use all of the proceeds from the sale of its securities solely to purchase a single class of securities of the Company. As a result, an investor investing in the Company through the SPV will have the same relationship to the Company's securities, in terms of number, denomination, type and rights, as if the investor invested directly in the Company.

Voting Rights: The securities offered by the Company and those offered by the SPV have voting rights, those voting rights may be exercised by the investor or his or her proxy. The applicable proxy is the Lead Investor, if the Proxy (described below) is in effect.

Proxy to the Lead Investor: The SPV securities have voting rights. With respect to those voting rights, the investor and his, her, or its transferees or assignees (collectively, the "investor"), through a power of attorney granted by investor in the Investor Agreement, has appointed or will appoint the Lead Investor as the investor's true and lawful proxy and attorney (the "Proxy") with the power to act alone and with full power of substitution, on behalf of the investor to: (i) vote at securities related to the Company purchased in an offering hosted by Wefunder Portal, and (ii) execute, in connection with such voting power, any instrument or document that the Lead Investor determines is necessary and appropriate in the exercise of his or her authority. Such Proxy will be irrevocable by the investor unless and until a successor lead investor ("Replacement Lead Investor") takes the place of the Lead Investor. Upon notice that a Replacement Lead Investor has taken the place of the Lead Investor, the investor will have five (5) calendar days to revoke the Proxy. If the Proxy is not revoked within the 5-day time period, it shall remain in effect.

Restriction on Transferability: The SPV securities are subject to restrictions on transfer, as set forth in the Subscription Agreement and the Limited Liability Company Agreement of Wefunder SPV, LLC, and may not be transferred without the prior approval of the Company on behalf of the SPV.

14. Do the securities offered have voting rights?

- Yes
 No

15. Are there any limitations on any voting or other rights identified above?

See the above description of the Proxy to the Lead Investor.

16. How may the terms of the securities being offered be modified?

Any provision of this Safe may be amended, waived or modified by written consent of the Company and either:

- i. The investor or
- ii. the majority-in-interest of all then-outstanding Safes with the same "Post-Money Valuation Cap" and "Discount Rate" as this Safe (and Safes lacking one or both of such terms will be considered to be the same with respect to such terms(s)), provided that with respect to clause (ii):
 - A. the Purchase Amount may not be amended, waived or modified in this manner,
 - B. the consent of the investor and each holder of such Safes must be solicited (even if not obtained), and
 - C. such amendment, waiver or modification treats all such holders in the same manner. "Majority-in-interest" refers to the holders of the applicable group of Safes whose Safes have a total Purchase Amount greater than 50% of the total Purchase Amount of all of such applicable group of Safes.

Pursuant to authorization in the Investor Agreement between each investor and Wefunder Portal, Wefunder Portal is authorized to take the following actions with respect to the investment contract between the Company and an investor:

- A. Wefunder Portal may amend the terms of an investment contract, provided that the amended terms are more favorable to the investor than the original terms; and
- B. Wefunder Portal may reduce the amount of an investor's investment if the reason for the reduction is that the Company's offering is oversubscribed.

Restrictions on Transfer of the Securities Being Offered:

The securities being offered may not be transferred by any purchaser of such securities during the one year period beginning when the securities were issued, unless such securities are transferred:

1. to the issuer;
2. to an accredited investor;
3. as part of an offering registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission; or
4. to a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the purchaser, to a trust created for the benefit of a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, or in connection with the death or divorce of the purchaser or other similar circumstances.

NOTE: The term "accredited investor" means any person who comes within any of the categories set forth in Rule 501(D) of Regulation D, or who the seller reasonably believes comes within any of such categories, at the time of the sale of the securities to that person.

The term "member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent" includes a child, stepchild, grandchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, spouse or spousal equivalent, sibling, mother-in-law, father-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law of the purchaser, and includes adoptive relationships. The term "spousal equivalent" means a cohabitant occupying a relationship generally equivalent to that of a spouse.

Description of issuer's Securities

17. What other securities or classes of securities of the issuer are outstanding? Describe the material terms of any other outstanding securities or classes of securities of the issuer.

Class of Security	Authorized	Outstanding	Voting rights
Common Stock	1,000,000	1,000,000	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>

Class of Security	Total Pool	Issued
Warrants	—	—
Options	—	—

Describe any other rights:

The company has not yet authorized preferred stock, which investors in the SAFE (if converted) will receive. Preferred stock has liquidation preferences over common stock.

18. How may the rights of the securities being offered be materially limited, diluted or qualified by the rights of any other class of security identified above?

The holders of a majority-in-interest of voting rights in the Company could limit the investor's rights in a material way. For example, those interest holders could vote to change the terms of the agreements governing the Company's operations or cause the Company to encase in additional offerings (including potentially a public offering).

These changes could result in further limitations on the voting rights the Investor will have as an owner of equity in the Company, for example by diluting those rights or limiting them to certain types of events or consents.

To the extent applicable, in cases where the rights of holders of convertible debt, SAFES, or other outstanding options or warrants are exercised, or if new awards are granted under our equity compensation plans, an Investor's interests in the Company may be diluted. This means that the pro rata portion of the Company represented by the Investor's securities will decrease, which could also diminish the Investor's voting and/or economic rights. In addition, as discussed above, if a majority-in-interest of holders of securities with voting rights cause the Company to issue additional equity, an Investor's interest will typically also be diluted.

Based on the risk that an Investor's rights could be limited, diluted or otherwise qualified, the Investor could lose all or part of his or her investment in the securities in this offering, and may never see positive returns.

Additional risks related to the rights of other security holders are discussed below in Question 20.

19. Are there any differences not reflected above between the securities being offered and each other class of security of the issuer?

No.

20. How could the exercise of rights held by the principal shareholders identified in Question 6 above affect the purchasers of the securities being offered?

As holders of a majority-in-interest of voting rights in the Company, the shareholders may make decisions with which the Investor disagrees, or that negatively affect the value of the Investor's securities in the Company, and the Investor will have no recourse to change these decisions. The Investor's interests may conflict with those of other investors, and there is no guarantee that the Company will develop in a way that is optimal for or advantageous to the Investor.

For example, the shareholders may change the terms of the articles of incorporation for the company, change the terms of securities issued by the Company, change the management of the Company, and even force out minority holders of securities. The shareholders may make changes that affect the tax treatment of the Company in ways that are unfavorable to you but favorable to them. They may also vote to engage in new offerings and/or to register certain of the Company's securities in a way that negatively affects the value of the securities the Investor owns. Other holders of securities of the Company may also have access to more information than the Investor, leaving the Investor at a disadvantage with respect to any decisions regarding the securities he or she owns.

The shareholders have the right to redeem their securities at any time. Shareholders could decide to force the Company to redeem their securities at a time that is not favorable to the investor and is damaging to the Company. Investors' exit may affect the value of the Company and/or its viability.

In cases where the rights of holders of convertible debt, SAFES, or other outstanding options or warrants are exercised, or if new awards are granted under our equity compensation plans, an Investor's interests in the Company may be diluted. This means that the pro rata portion of the Company represented by the Investor's securities will decrease, which could also diminish the Investor's voting and/or economic rights. In addition, as discussed above, if a majority-in-interest of holders of securities with voting rights cause the Company to issue additional stock, an Investor's interest will typically also be diluted.

21. How are the securities being offered being valued? Include examples of methods for how such securities may be valued by the issuer in the future, including during subsequent corporate actions.

The offering price for the securities offered pursuant to this Form C has been determined arbitrarily by the Company, and does not necessarily bear any relationship to the Company's book value, assets, earnings or other generally accepted valuation criteria. In determining the offering price, the Company did not employ investment banking firms or other outside organizations to make an independent appraisal or evaluation. Accordingly, the offering price should not be considered to be indicative of the actual value of the securities offered hereby.

The initial amount invested in a SAFE is determined by the investor, and we do not guarantee that the SAFE will be converted into any particular number of shares of Preferred Stock. As discussed in Question 13, when we engage in an offering of equity interests involving Preferred Stock, Investors may receive a number of shares of Preferred Stock calculated as either (i) the total value of the Investor's investment, divided by the price of the Preferred Stock being issued to new investors; or (ii) if the valuation for the company is more than the Valuation Cap, the amount invested divided by the quotient of (a) the Valuation Cap divided by (b) the total amount of the Company's capitalization at that time.

Because there will likely be no public market for our securities prior to an initial public offering or similar liquidity event, the price of the Preferred Stock that Investors will receive, and/or the total value of the Company's capitalization, will be determined by our board of directors. Among the factors we may consider in determining the price of Preferred Stock are prevailing market conditions, our financial information, market valuations of other companies that we believe to be comparable to us, estimates of our business potential, the present state of our development and other factors deemed relevant.

In the future, we will perform valuations of our stock (including both common stock and Preferred Stock) that take into account, as applicable, factors such as the following:

- unrelated third party valuations;
- the price at which we sell other securities in light of the relative rights, preferences and privileges of those securities;
- our results of operations, financial position and capital resources;
- current business conditions and projections;
- the marketability or lack thereof of the securities;
- the hiring of key personnel and the experience of our management;
- the introduction of new products;
- the risk inherent in the development and expansion of our products;
- our stage of development and material risks related to our business;
- the likelihood of achieving a liquidity event, such as an initial public offering or a sale of our company given the prevailing market conditions and the nature and history of our business;
- industry trends and competitive environment;
- trends in consumer spending, including consumer confidence;
- overall economic indicators, including gross domestic product, employment, inflation and interest rates; and
- the general economic outlook.

We will analyze factors such as those described above using a combination of financial and market-based methodologies to determine our business enterprise value. For example, we may use methodologies that assume that businesses operating in the same industry will share similar characteristics and that the Company's value will correlate to those characteristics, and/or methodologies that compare transactions in similar securities issued by us that were conducted in the market.

22. What are the risks to purchasers of the securities relating to minority ownership in the issuer?

An Investor in the Company will likely hold a minority position in the Company, and thus be limited as to its ability to control or influence the governance and operations of the Company.

The marketability and value of the Investor's interest in the Company will depend upon many factors outside the control of the Investor. The Company will be managed by its officers and be governed in accordance with the strategic direction and decision-making of its Board Of Directors, and the Investor will have no independent right to name or remove an officer or member of the Board Of Directors of the Company.

Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the Investor in the Company. The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured.

The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the Investor's interest in the Company.

23. What are the risks to purchasers associated with corporate actions, including additional issuances of securities, issuer repurchases of securities, a sale of the issuer or of assets of the issuer or transactions with related parties?

Additional issuances of securities. Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the Investor in the Company. The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured. The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the Investor's interest in the Company.

Issuer repurchases of securities. The Company may have authority to repurchase its securities from shareholders, which may serve to decrease any liquidity in the market for such securities, decrease the percentage interests held by other similarly situated investors to the Investor, and create pressure on the Investor to sell its securities to the Company concurrently.

A sale of the issuer or of assets of the issuer. As a minority owner of the Company, the Investor will have limited or no ability to influence a potential sale of the Company or a substantial portion of its assets. Thus, the Investor will rely upon the executive management of the Company and the Board of Directors of the Company to manage the Company so as to maximize value for shareholders. Accordingly, the success of the Investor's investment in the Company will depend in large part upon the skill and expertise of the executive management of the Company and the Board of Directors of the Company. If the Board Of Directors of the Company authorizes a sale of all or a part of the Company, or a disposition of a substantial portion of the Company's assets, there can be no guarantee that the value received by the Investor, together with the fair market estimate of the value remaining in the Company, will be equal to or exceed the value of the Investor's initial investment in the Company.

Transactions with related parties. The Investor should be aware that there will be occasions when the Company may encounter potential conflicts of interest in its operations. On any issue involving conflicts of interest, the executive management and Board of Directors of the Company will be guided by their good faith judgement as to the Company's best interests. The Company may engage in transactions with affiliates, subsidiaries or other related parties, which may be on terms which are not arm's-length, but will be in all cases consistent with the duties of the management of the Company to its shareholders. By acquiring an interest in the Company, the investor will be deemed to have acknowledged the existence of any such actual or potential conflicts of interest and to have waived any claim with respect to any liability arising from the existence of any such conflict of interest.

24. Describe the material terms of any indebtedness of the issuer:

Loan: Amount: $1,450.00 Outstanding principal plus interest: $1,450.00 as of 7/2/2026 Accrued Liability / Accrued weight discrepancy freight charge disputed with carrier; Accrued per GAAP matching principle / not deductible for tax until resolved.

25. What other exempt offerings has the issuer conducted within the past three years?

Offering date	Exemption	Security type	Amount sold	Use of proceeds
No exempt offerings.

26. Was or is the issuer or any entities controlled by or under common control with the issuer a party to any transaction since the beginning of the issuer's last fiscal year, or any currently proposed transaction, where the amount involved exceeds five percent of the aggregate amount of capital raised by the issuer in reliance on Section 4(a)(6) of the Securities Act during the preceding 12-month period, including the amount the issuer seeks to raise in the current offering, in which any of the following persons had or is to have a direct or indirect material interest:

- any director or officer of the issuer;
- any person who is, as of the most recent practicable date, the beneficial owner of 20 percent or more of the issuer's outstanding voting equity securities, calculated on the basis of voting power;

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE ISSUER

27. Does the issuer have an operating history?

Yes

28. Describe the financial condition of the issuer, including, to the extent material, liquidity, capital resources and historical results of operations.

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Overview of the Business and Financial Condition

Oya Active Inc operates an e-commerce store selling activewear and apparel. The company has a summer collection and offers products through their online catalog with international shipping capabilities.

We are an early-stage company and have incurred operating losses and negative cash flows from operations since inception. We expect to continue to incur operating losses in the near term.

As of June 9, 2026, we had cash and cash equivalents of approximately $17,000.

Our ability to continue operations is dependent on managing our expenses and, if necessary, obtaining additional financing.

This discussion should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and related notes included in this offering statement.

Business and Operating Uncertainty

Our business operates in an environment subject to various risks, uncertainties, and changing conditions which makes it difficult to evaluate our business, financial condition, and prospects and may limit the comparability of our results of operations from period to period.

Financial Condition

As of the date of the financial statements included in this offering statement, our total assets were $20,657.16 and our current and non-current liabilities, as reflected in available financial statement filings, were $7,949.03.

Our financial statements reflect an early-stage company with limited operating history. Investors should not place undue reliance on historical financial information given the company's limited operating history and the likelihood that future results will differ from historical results.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

As of the date of the financial statements included in this offering statement, we had cash and cash equivalents of approximately $323.82.

Based on our current operations, we have a monthly net cash burn of approximately $5,000.

Our monthly net cash burn or profit may vary significantly from month to month due to the timing of receipts and expenditures and other short-term factors. As a result, period-to-period comparisons may not be meaningful.

Based on our current plan, we expect to have sufficient cash to fund operations for at least the next 12 months.

To date, our operations have been funded through minimal cash resources and have not included any external financing. There have also been founder contributions of approximately $27,000.

Liquidity Assumptions

Our assessment of our liquidity and ability to fund operations is not a projection and is based on current assumptions regarding operating expenses, cash requirements, and capital needs. These assumptions may change, and actual results may differ materially due to changes in operating conditions, timing of receipts and payments, and other factors.

Dependence on Additional Financing

There can be no assurance that additional financing will be available on acceptable terms, or at all. If we are unable to raise additional capital when needed, we may be required to materially reduce or suspend operations.

Indebtedness and Capital Structure

As of the date of this offering statement, we had total outstanding indebtedness consisting of approximately $4,003.60 in aggregate principal obligations. The material terms of such indebtedness are described in Item 24 of this Form C.

(For the avoidance of doubt, SAFEs are not treated as indebtedness.)

We have not conducted any exempt offerings or raised capital in the past three years.

Known Trends, Events, and Uncertainties

Management is not currently aware of any known trends, events, or uncertainties that are reasonably likely to have a material adverse effect on our financial condition or results of operations over the next 12 months.

The absence of a discussion of any particular trend, event, or uncertainty should not be interpreted to mean that such matters do not exist; rather, it reflects management's judgment based on information currently available.

Changes Since the Date of the Financial Statements

There have been no material changes in our operations or financial condition since the date of the financial statements included in this offering.

Impact of This Offering

The proceeds from this offering are expected to be used to accelerate Oya Active's growth across product, community, and infrastructure. The timing and extent of our use of proceeds will depend on the amount of proceeds raised and future operating conditions. Additional detail regarding our planned use of proceeds is provided in Item 10 of this Form C.

There can be no assurance that the proceeds of this offering will be sufficient to fund our operations or achieve our business objectives.

Certain information relevant to understanding our financial condition and liquidity is presented elsewhere in this offering statement, including in the financial statements, related notes, and the sections describing indebtedness and prior financings.

Forward-Looking Statements

This discussion contains forward-looking statements that are based on management's current expectations and assumptions. Actual results may differ materially from those expressed or implied by these statements.

OTHER MATERIAL INFORMATION

31. In addition to the information expressly required to be included in this Form, include: ()

- (1) any other material information presented to investors; and

- (2) such further material information, if any, as may be necessary to make the required statements, in light of the circumstances under which they are made, not misleading.

The Lead Investor, as described above, each investor that has entered into the Investor Agreement will grant a power of attorney to make voting decisions on behalf of that investor to the Lead Investor (the "Proxy"). The Proxy is irrevocable unless and until a Successor Lead Investor takes the place of the Lead Investor, in which case, the investor has five (5) calendar day period to revoke the Proxy. Pursuant to the Proxy, the Lead Investor or his or her successor will make voting decisions and take any other actions in connection with the voting on investors' behalf.

The Lead Investor is an individual that is chosen to act in the role of Lead Investor on behalf of investors that have a Proxy in effect. The Lead Investor will be chosen by the Company and approved by Wefunder, Inc. and the identity of the initial Lead Investor will be disclosed to investors before investors make a final investment decision to purchase the securities related to the Company.

The Lead Investor can quit at any time or can be removed by Wefunder, Inc. for cause or pursuant to a vote of investors as detailed in the Lead Investor Agreement. In the event the Lead Investor quits or is removed, the Company will choose a Successor Lead Investor who must be approved by Wefunder, Inc. The identity of the Successor Lead Investor will be disclosed to investors, and those that have a Proxy in effect can choose to either leave such Proxy in place or revoke such Proxy during a 5-day period beginning with notice of the replacement of the Lead Investor.

The Lead Investor will not receive any compensation for his or her services to the SPV. The Lead Investor may receive compensation if, in the future, Wefunder Advisors LLC forms a fund ("Fund") for accredited investors for the purpose of investing in a non-Regulation Crowdfunding offering of the Company. In such circumstances, the Lead Investor may act as a portfolio manager for that fund (and as a supervised person of Wefunder Advisors) and may be compensated through that role.

Although the Lead Investor may act in multiple roles with respect to the Company's offerings and may potentially be compensated for some of its services, the Lead Investor's goal is to maximize the value of the Company and therefore maximize the value of securities issued by or related to the Company. As a result, the Lead Investor's interests should always be aligned with those of investors. It is, however, possible that in some limited circumstances the Lead Investor's interests could diverge from the interests of investors, as discussed in section 8 above.

Investors that wish to purchase securities related to the Company through Wefunder Portal must agree to give the Proxy described above to the Lead Investor, provided that if the Lead Investor is replaced, the investor will have a 5-day period during which he or she may revoke the Proxy. If the Proxy is not revoked during this 5-day period, it will remain in effect.

Tax Filings. In order to complete necessary tax filings, the SPV is required to include information about each investor who holds an interest in the SPV, including each investor's taxpayer identification number ("TIN") (e.g., social security number or employer identification number). To the extent they have not already done so, each investor will be required to provide their TIN within the earlier of (i) two (2) years of making their investment or (ii) twenty (20) days prior to the date of any distribution from the SPV. If an investor does not provide their TIN within this time, the SPV reserves the right to withhold from any proceeds otherwise payable to the investor an amount necessary for the SPV to satisfy its tax withholding obligations as well as the SPV's reasonable estimation of any penalties that may be charged by the IRS or other relevant authority as a result of the investor's failure to provide their TIN. If applicable, the Company may also be required to pay Wefunder certain fees for the preparation of tax filings. Such fees and the Company's obligation to deliver required tax documents are further specified in the related Tax Services Agreement ("TSA").

Investors should carefully review the terms of the SPV Subscription Agreement for additional information about tax filings.

Potential Dissolution of the SPV. The Company has agreed that it will pay an administrative fee and / or certain tax fees to Wefunder in addition to delivering required tax information in the manner prescribed by the TSA, where applicable. Failure to pay such fees or provide Wefunder with required tax information could result in the dissolution of the SPV (an "SPV Dissolution Event"). Subsequent to an SPV Dissolution Event, the securities held by the SPV would be distributed directly and proportionally to the individual investors. This could create administrative complexities, as investors would need to manage the securities themselves rather than having them held and administered by the SPV. Additionally, the unplanned distribution of securities may not align with investors' intended investment strategy or asset allocation.

Upon an SPV Dissolution Event, the investor hereby consents to and agrees to accept direct assignment of the SPV's rights and obligations under any investment agreements between the SPV and the Company that is located in the Form C or C/A offering materials. The investor acknowledges they will be bound by all terms and conditions of such agreements as if they were an original party thereto.

ONGOING REPORTING

32. The issuer will file a report electronically with the Securities & Exchange Commission annually and post the report on its website, no later than:

120 days after the end of each fiscal year covered by the report.
