Memo

ALULA is a bold new psychological horror film directed by Frank Coraci, the filmmaker behind global hits including The Wedding Singer, The Waterboy, Click, and Blended. After a blocked composer retreats to his remote French chateau, the return of his childhood imaginary friend—a mysterious nine-year-old girl—reawakens his creativity while blurring the line between inspiration and terror.

Combining an emotionally compelling story with elevated horror, striking European locations, and a proven commercial director, ALULA is designed to connect with both genre audiences and the broader international market. This crowdfunding opportunity gives investors the chance to participate in the creation of an original, commercially driven feature film alongside an experienced team with a clear vision for bringing it to audiences worldwide.

We invite you to become part of ALULA—not simply as an investor, but as an early partner in bringing this haunting and unforgettable story to life.
