$BETR — The path is now clear for stockholders to vote on removing five BETR directors. Federal and Delaware courts have cleared significant legal hurdles for the Garg Group's consent solicitation, materially shifting power in the boardroom fight.

We peeled this filing. The

Thank you Director Pulte @pulte . This is about $400-$800 per funded loan cost for $betr customers. Bi-merge or rep and warrantied tri-merge by the lender (we will build the tech and do it for free for all other lenders too if you let us - I offered this to @FannieMae @FreddieMac

Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion have been overcharging Americans for far too long. This will end soon. We are seriously considering bi-merge, and stronger solutions (SAFER and SOUNDER). We will not allow companies to take advantage of American consumers. No more.

See chart below. We started working on token backed mortgage with our partners at Fannie Mae back in April 2025, got coinbase engaged in fall 2025. Everyone on the board, including @danielsethlew is NEGATIVE about it. I think it was one of the reasons I got fired -

$BETR — The BETR proxy fight just saw a major shift. A DFAN14A filing at $13.3219 confirms Better's federal court injunction against Garg was rejected. Critically, both Better's counsel and the Delaware Court of Chancery now state signing a GREEN consent card will not trigger

@danielsethlewis there you go again twisting words.... You must be getting desperate. I am not going to let you bait me into disclosing how we are doing and having you file another lawsuit with our companies money.

You have time to twist my words and tweet Daniel but no time to @vishal_better: Is this your concession that you no longer expect to win the proxy contest?

We can confirm that Mr. Garg does not have a majority of the voting power at this time....

I can't legally share or Daniel and Betters board and their lawyers burning $700k per week will sue me.

So to protect your money and mind from being burnt further - you just have to know that I don't play games that I can't win.

And even if I lose the first time, I don't give up till I win.
