Let's get back to work.

Today 9:00 PM

The team tells me you spend 80% of your time fighting me and 20% of your time on the company.

Perhaps try working, in the office, and issuing less false statements in press releases, and filing less lawsuits.

You can start right now by retracting the SDNY lawsuit and dropping the poison pill and getting me the stockholder list you have been withholding illegally from me.

I will stop posting anything negative about you or the board and just let the vote happen if you do that.

It will save the company $1mm per week. Ready to do that ?

I am happy to compromise. I already laid it out. I am fighting for logic and . $BETR . If I shared my emails to the board with you all you would be surprised to see what has been happening and how tone deaf some of them are to shareholders.

Stock is absurdly cheap. Any AI lab would happily pay this just for the unique end to end training data set on that $110 billion of mortgage production in Tinman. $BETR

Egan-Jones recommends the removal of Harit Talwar Arnaud Massenet Bhaskar Menon Daniel Lewis from the board of Better. BETR Shareholders, stock is down 60% from the coup effectuated b ...more

RECOMMENDATION AND KEY REASONS

We recommend that shareholders vote FOR the Garg Group's Bylaw Restoration Proposal and Removal Proposal. In reaching this conclusion, we believe the Board has not yet provided a sufficiently persuasive case that the August 2026 leadership transition will produce superior shareholder value.

- The timing and motivation of the CEO transition raises questions. Better's Board removed Mr. Garg during a period in which the Company was reporting improving loan volume, revenue growth, and narrowing losses. Garg transitioned from CEO and Daniel Lewis became interim CEO effective August 3, 2026. Although Better has remained unprofitable over Garg's tenure, losses each quarter have been decreasing as revenues continue to rise rapidly.
- TSR supports the prior strategy. Since Better's August 2023 public listing, cumulative TSR was approximately -53%, reflecting substantial long-term shareholder losses. However, Better generated approximately 14% TSR over the more recent two-year period and was the only company in the selected peer group to deliver a positive return[1]. This relative outperformance supports the view that Better's technology-led strategy, including Tinman AI, cost discipline, and mortgage-plus-HELOC product capabilities, was beginning to gain traction under Garg.
- Post-termination performance supports a reassessment. Better's approximately 53% TSR decline after August 3, 2026 through early September materially underperformed the selected peer group. While Better argues that continuing financial and operating challenges remain relevant and Garg's termination is not the reason for the substantial decline, the magnitude and timing of the underperformance support a shareholder review of whether the leadership transition weakened market confidence and disrupted strategic momentum.
- The Garg Group offers superior execution on a similar strategy. Daniel Lewis admits that Better's strategy has remained the same even after Mr. Garg's termination. However, we believe that Mr. Garg, being the architect of the strategy, offers a superior ability to execute on the strategy, as evidenced by improved fundamentals over the past two years. The strategy advocates for continuity in cost transformation, sustained investment in Tinman AI and software engineering, selective monetization of non-core assets, completion of the UK banking-business sale, and a permanent-CEO search focused on fintech and AI expertise.

Also this is very sad: The Sept. 15 BETR short-interest is now 3,343,709 shares short. Isn't that >50% tradeable float ?

Vishal Garg @vishal_better · 6h

Yes the shorts are making the bet that @danielsethlewis and the $betr board hunker down, lawyer up, spend all the money and then do a capital raise which the shorts can use to cover. You can stop them by Voting GREEN.

That's exactly what he did. To his stock, his partner @pythianism stock, my stock, and everyone else. It's not about getting me out. It's about getting him in. And not short term but permanently. He wants to be the permanent CEO. I have already offered to have zero operational

Thanks HousingWire Sarah Wolak for your coverage of Daniel Lewis payoff for votes:
A spokesperson of Garg shared the following statement with HousingWire: "Daniel Lewis has a history of bribing people. He bribed the Board. He tried to bribe Vishal, but Vishal turned him down; and now he bribed a shareholder and former employee by settling a case with her that Better should have gotten a lot more for its shareholders in exchange for her changing her vote. This is corrupt and against the best interests of Better's investors."

Vote GREEN. End this nonsense.
